The Dutch Group Improves Efficiency and Information Visibility with Square 9

The Fuel and Convenience Store Chain Uses AI Solution to Automate Payables

New Haven, CT. April 23, 2024—The Dutch Group, a fuel, convenience store, and medical chain with over 50 consecutive years of positive sales growth, has streamlined its accounts payables processes using an AI-assisted solution from Square 9. This intelligent information management solution takes advantage of AI document capture to manage invoices and eliminate data entry into the Dutch Group's ERP system from PDI Technologies.

By centralizing information access and facilitating remote payables processing across their Clinic and Pharmacy locations in 2 U.S. states, the Dutch Group has drastically improved efficiency and ensured their staff have all the information they need without sacrificing their controls and best practices.

"With Square 9, all the information is in there." says the Dutch Group's Corporate Controller, Lily Setiawan. "You can see whether an invoice was sent or not. That really speeds up the payment process."

Accounts payable automation solutions involving high volumes of vendors face significant hurdles without AI-assisted capture like Square 9's TransformAI. The Dutch Group's new solution has granted them significant time savings over previous automation attempts, allowing their staff to focus on value and revenue-driving activities.

“Now, the pharmacists don’t have to work in the document capture tool anymore because the AI already handles it,” explains Setiawan. “They search for the invoice, approve it, make sure it looks good, and send it off because they’re pharmacists, and that’s what they do.”
